LOOKS BETTER FOR SHELLARD

NO DOUBT NOW THAT BARBARA BIEG WROTE THAT LETTER.

Bingham Has the Policeman Accused of Murder Mugged-Crowd at Girl's Grave Hoots Policemen on Guard There -Flance Tries to Jump Into Grave.

The case of Policeman David Shellard, who was arrested on Thursday after he had admitted that he was with Barbara Rieg when she came to her death in the tool house in Irving Park, Brooklyn, on Tuespay night, was helped a bit yesterday, it ould appear, when a comparison of the love letter sent to him by the woman and samples of her handwriting was made. It showed that the letter upon which Shellard relies to clear him undoubtedly had been written by the woman.

The comparison was made as a result of the statement of members of the woman's mly to the effect that Barbara was unable write any lengthy epistle because of an cident she sustained a year ago in a factory, when her right hand was partly crippled. Three of the fingers on her right hand were made almost useless, it is true, but her thumb and index finger were practically unharmed. The woman's parents and her brother and sister are particularly bitter against the accused policeman and will not listen to the theory of suicide.

On account of their statements Inspector Hussey and Capt. Carey of the Detective Bureau went to the Rieg house and got a stack of postal cards bearing the woman's handwriting. They also got some reports she had written at the factory where she worked. These were taken yesterday to Borough Inspector Flood's office and compared with the "Dear Dave" letter which the policeman produced after his arrest to prove that the woman was in love with him. It was plain even to a layman that the woman had written this letter.

The detectives working on the case pronounced absurd the theory that the woman could not have fired the revolver herself on account of the injury to her hand. As a matter of fact Inspector Hussey, Capt. Carey and their detectives have not succeeded in turning up anything as yet which tends to disprove the story told by Shellard of how the woman had killed herself after they had been in the tool house an hour. Coroner Brewer is to hold the inquest on Wednesday evening, and it is likely that on Wednesday evening, and it is likely that Shellard will repeat his story before the Coroner's jury on that occasion.

Police Commissioner Brigham visited the Brooklyn police headquarters yesterday morning and immediately afterward Shellard was taken over from Raymond street Jail handcuffed to a deputy sheriff and was photographed, measured and had his thumb prints taken. This was not done on Friday, a fact which caused comment. The explanation made by Deputy Commissioner Baker was that Shellard, being a policeman, the department already had his photograph and measurements. Evidently Commissioner Bingham decided that this fact should not exempt him from the usual irestment of a prisoner.

sioner Bingham decided that this fact should not exempt him from the usual ireatment of a prisoner.

Shellard's brother, Joseph, is a patrolman attached to the same precinct, the Hamburg avenue station. He said yesterday that his brother was a victim of circumstances. The Hamburg avenue station has an unusual number of young policemen. That Barbara Rieg was acquainted with a number of them is certain, but so far no one in the station house has come forward to admit having known her. In the letter produced by Shellard mention's made by the woman of a man named Teddy with whom she seemed to be on good terms. Captain Wormell admitted after some questioning yesterday that Teddy was one of his policemen, but he refused to disclose his last name or to say whether Teddy had been questioned about the case.

Furthermore it was announced yesterday that the locksmith from whom Shellard said he had purchased a key to the tool house four months ago had moved and couldn't be found. From the stories told in the neighborhood quite a number of policemen had keys to the tool house. Commissioner Bingham on Thursday ordered that an investigation be made to find out who had keys to the tool house. Commissioner Bingham on Thursday ordered that an investigation be made to find out who these men were and whether it was the custom to take young women into the place. The police withheld the name of this locksmith but said that he had a place on Knickerbocker avenue. It was Capt. Wornell was capt. nell who announced yesterday that the locksmith had moved and couldn't be found. He said that he was still looking When the funeral of Barbara Rieg was held yesterday a crowd of several fueg was persons gathered outside of the house at 330 Maujer street and housed 330 Maujer street and hooted and yelled at the five uniformed policemen sent from the tagg street station to preserve order. neighborhood is a poor one. It was plain to see that the people were greatly incensed at the police.

At Holy Trinity Cemetery in Williamsburg Otto Hack, who was to marry the woman in September, pushed his way through the crowd and tried to throw himself into the grave. When a brother of the dead woman caught him he sank on his brokes and cried out: knees and cried out: "I will find out the man who murdered you, Barbara, if it takes all my life! They said you were not true to me, but I never believed them."

MATCH IN A GAS FILLED ROOM Newark Man Killed and Policemen Who

Had Gone to Arrest Him Injured. By an explosion of gas at 37 Houston street. Newark, yesterday one man was killed and two policemen were severely burned. The dead man was Albert Butz, 46 years old, and the policemen are Conrad Rauscher and Herman Krasowski of the Third precinct. The latter were taken to St. James's Hospital. Rauscher was burned about the face and hands and the doctors fear he inhaled the flame. Krasowski escaped with slight burns. The policemen went to the house to arrest Butz on a warrant issued on complaint of his wife. It was the second time within twelve hours that Rauscher had been sent out after him. Mrs. Barbara Butz, the wife telephoned to the Third precinct late Friday night that her husband had threatened to kill her with a knife. Rauscher and Patrolman Farley were sent out to get him. After searching for an hour the policemen could not find Butz and went back to the station. Butz went to the Third precinct police court yesterday morning to com-plain against her husband, and it is believed that after she left the house Butz decided to commit suicide and turned on the gas When the police reached the house they had no difficulty in getting in, but it was dark inside, all the blinds being down. The Butzes lived on the first floor.

Krasowski started to search the rooms inside while Rauscher remained outside on guard. When Krasowski opened the dining room door he smelled gas and dining room door he smelled gas and

HELD FOR KILLING DR. FLINT

SURGEON DIES OF INJURIES RECEIVED AT SEA BRIGHT.

Louis Le Francois, 19-Year-Old Chauffeur for W. J. Masury, Whose Car Hit Dr. Flint and Just Missed His Companion Dr. Wylle, is Accused of Manslaughter.

SEA BRIGHT, N. J., July 25 .- Dr. Carleton P. Flint of 107 West Fifty-fifth street, New York, a member of the surgical staff of the Roosevelt Hospital, who was struck by an automobile at Sea Bright station last night, died from his injuries at the home of Dr. W. Gill Wylie on Rumson road early this morning. Louis Le Francois, chauffeur for W. J. Masury of New York, who is occupying the B. A. Van Brunt cottage at Galilee was charged with manslaughter and committed to the county jail this afternoon by Justice P. Hall Packer, while George Nellier, a bootblack, who was riding with Le François, was held under $300 bail as a witness. Coroner William E. MacDonald of Bradley Beach empanelled a jury to-day, with Postmaster Ebenezer S. Nesbitt as foreman, and the inquest will be held on Wednesday. The jury viewed the body before it was turned over to a Long Branch undertaker. In all probability Prosecutor Henry M. Nevius of Red Bank will call a special session of the Grand Jury to consider the

Dr. Flint was run down at the Sea Bright station. He had just been driven up the coast from the Townsend cottage at Waterwitch, where he and Dr. W. Gill Wylie and other surgeons had held a consultation. Dr. Flint was eager to reach New York last night, as he had another urgent call. Dr. Wylle had agreed to drive him to Red Bank providing the last trolley car from here had left, and in case no train could be caught at that point to take him on to caught at that point to take him on to New York in the auto.

Both Dr. Wylie and Dr. Flint had left the machine and were standing a few feet from each other when the Masury car came along swiftly. Instantly and without warning the machine was upon Dr. Flint and barely missed taking Dr. Wylie along too. One of the lamps struck Dr. Flint on the hip. He was tossed twenty feet, and then the car hit him again and rolled him eighty feet further. When the auto was stopped the body of the surgeon was found wedged under the machine, mangled. It was removed to Dr. Wylie's residence. Dr. Flint never regained consciousness.

Le François is 19 years old, of French descent had been at the wheel for a year. A servant of the Masury cottage had been discharged yesterday and Le François was commissioned to take the servant to the train. He missed the last train, and not knowing where a boarding house could be found sought the bootblack, who volunteered to help him find a place where the servant might spend the night. The chauffeur was bringing the bootblack back to the station when the machine hit the surgeon.

The crime of manslaughter in New Jersey is punishable by twenty years in jail and a fine of $1,000 at the discretion of the Judge. Dr. Flint was 35 years old. He was graduated from Harvard in 1896 and began practice in New York at once. At the Thaw trial he was called to testify about professional services he had performed for Evelyn Thaw. He had a wife and two children, who were in the mountains for the summer. They are expected at Long Branch, where the body of the surgeon is, late to-night or early to-morrow, when arrangements will be made for the burial.
